LARGE AMOUNT OF RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION CAUSES UNPRECEDED DEMAND FOR TEAMS

Team owners who have had the time and the inclination to engage in railway construction work this summer have been busy. The first of these is over the G. T. P. This steamer will ply between Tete Juan Cache and Soda Creek; the terminus of the 168 mile wagon road north from Ashcroft. To the Capital he said that the work is being carried on under the most favorable conditions. The earth is dry, the grain is light and easily handled and good progress is being made by the constructionists all the time. The wheat is making it more difficult to secure teams at the present time, the farmers in the last of the summer will have been able to engage in railway work earlier in the summer are now in the midst of their harvest. Mr. Fitzpatrick expressed the opinion that with such favorable conditions the railway freight will be computed for the show year of 1910, as prospectors are fairly swarming into the country. A large number of them are coming from the west, at Willow Creek, a small settlement on the Fraser River a short distance from Mr. Bolton's place, where freight charges necessitated by the long, the Fraser mining propositions.

During the past few years of its existence, the association has been taking this fall, particularly in the districts surrounding the Twin Cities, by reason of the heavy rains which have fallen within the past fortnight. MANY ENTRIES FOR THE ENTWISTLE FAIR

Secretary Morris Reports that the Entry List is Much Larger Than Ever Before

(Special to the Capital)
Edmonton, Sept. 3.—Entries for the Entwistle fair are coming thick and fast according to statements of Secretary S. W. Morris. Over 2,500 were received during Thursday, Friday and Saturday last, and it is expected that there will be many more this week. The fair will open on Tuesday of next week, September 12, and will be held under the auspices of the Entwistle agricultural society.

The management of the fair seems to have been placed in safe hands as all the details have been carefully arranged. There is an excellent program of sport events for which prizes totaling in value more than $100 are being given. There will also, of course, be some fast horse racing.

New buildings have been erected on the grounds, among them a grand stand with a large seating capacity. The prizes for the sport events on exhibition here are also attracting a great deal of attention.

For the stock and agricultural exhibits prizes totaling over $1,000 are offered and the entries so far received that prove that the exhibitors will be varied and good. Every class is well filled. A special train will be run from Edmonton by the Grand Trunk people on Tuesday, September 12, the day of the fair and the railroad people express the opinion that it will be crowded. Among those who will be at the fair are the Honorable Charles Oliver, Hon. Mr. Harcourt, and C. L. Lewis, superintendent of fairs and exhibitions.

For the first time since the beautiful party given in the long lease of power in Massachusetts, now more than half a century ago, its control of the legislative franchise has been seriously challenged in the election this fall.

PUMPS NOT WORKING TO RATED CAPACITY

Supposed to Be Delivering 11,000,000 Gallons Daily—Matter of Fact Are Pumping 2,325,185—Not Handling Machinery Properly Says Former Sup't.

PUMPS—The fact that the big Ingle pump does not deliver the water to the city mains is the reason the water supply has been inadequate. Rated at six million gallons every twenty-four hours, the Ingle pump is delivering 1,612,249 gallons every twenty-four hours. And the million and a half and three quarter million pumps are delivering 712,936 gallons. What the turbine pump has been delivering is not known as that machine is being overhauled and no test could be made of its efficiency Saturday. By the middle of the week, it is expected, the turbine will be in shape and when in operation, the situation will be relieved.

At the meeting of the public called last evening at the separate school hall the question of why there is not water in the city mains was answered. The answer was obtained when a test of the Ingle pump and other pumps was made Saturday afternoon. It was discovered that the water was being delivered. Why the Ingle pump is not pumping the quantity of water supposed to be pumped is a question. There is a slip somewhere. Where this slip is constitutes the problem now to be solved.

Test on Saturday

Before the test of Saturday afternoon a unique situation presented itself. The pumps were running and it was believed that the water, pressure gauges and everything indicated that the pumps were pumping water. And if the pumps were pumping water, then the lack of water could only be accounted for by a supposed leak in the mains. The waterworks superintendent declared that there was no leak in the mains. He declared that the water was not being delivered to the mains. The power-house superintendent declared that the pumps were working like a clock, pointed to his pressure gauges, pointed to the rapidity of the pumps, and declared that every valve in the Ingle pump has just been replaced with new ones, and maintained the position that the water was being pumped. It was decided that a test would be made. The clear water basin was filled, the amount of water measured and the Ingle pump started to work on that basis. It was discovered that the big Ingle pump was not beginning to do its duty. Instead of pumping six million gallons, it was not pumping two million gallons. Then the two old pumps in the old power house were given a chance to demonstrate their effectiveness, and they fell down miserably, doing less than one million.

Far Below Capacity
The total amount of water being pumped by the Ingle and the two old pumps amounted to 2,325,185 gallons. Such is the current situation presented at this time. Incidentally it is thoroughly demonstrated that the Ingle pump is not the master of the machine for handling water direct from the river. The sand and grit enter away the valve of the Ingle pump. It is the opinion of a turbine is the only pump that is adapted to pump water from clear water free from all foreign substances. The big Ingle pump may be satisfactory when pumping from the river water basin, or from sources where the water is free from sand and grit.

Monday Night Meeting

At the Monday night meeting Mayor Macleod was in the chair. He examined the cause for calling the meeting, a petition having been received from him and signed by some of the citizens asking for such a gathering. The mayor discussed the water situation in the city. He pointed out the need for a new pump and the need for a new waterworks. He pointed out the need for a new waterworks. He pointed out the need for a new waterworks.

Machinery Not Handled Properly

Putting it a vote as to whether or not a gravelly system of water should be provided, no expression of the meeting was received, only half a dozen or so came to express an opinion at that time. There were nearly 200 present at the meeting.

That the pumps are all right if properly handled and that he would give the city an ample and adequate supply of water within ten days if given charge of the pumping plant was the statement made at the meeting by former Acting Superintendent Deereverster. Mr. Deereverster stated that when he was in charge of the plant the city council was against him because they thought he was a Boston man and that when he was in charge of the plant he was not a Boston man, he was not a Boston man, he was not a Boston man.

Superintendent Hoffman of the power plant declared the Ingle pump was under-rated and that the consumption had increased beyond the capacity of the pumps.

Overhaul Big Ingle

To relieve the situation the Ingle pump is to be overhauled during the night when the water demand is at its minimum. New valves are to be put in and the slip discovered and remedied. This will necessarily take some time before the work is entirely completed.

FAVORS ALASKA LEASING SYSTEM

FISHER CONCEDES THERE ARE OBJECTIONS THAT MUST BE CONSIDERED

Valdez, Alaska, Sept. 2.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher returned here yesterday. A union and mining escort of a citizens' reception committee set out on the Valdez-Tarakan military road to Kasaan canyon, the scene a few years ago of a battle between rival railroad construction crews returning, the party alighted at Camp Comfort, a roadhouse 10 miles from Valdez. While at dinner Secretary Fisher asked members of the committee for their opinions concerning the best method of handling the Alaska coal problem and discussed freely his ideas of the situation.

Mr. Fisher said that he regarded the problem of opening the coal lands, while safeguarding against monopoly and excessive prices, as offering a choice between absolute government ownership and operation and a leasing system. The leasing system, he said, is in successful operation in the state-owned coal lands in Colorado and Montana. The Montana lease runs only five years, with no covenant for renewal, merely offering a first option of renewal at the best bid offered. Yet he said, the Montana lands had ready takers.

Might Be Monopoly

Conditions in the Bering river coal fields of Alaska are somewhat different, he said, owing to the existence of but one line of transportation to seaward. He conceded that the owners of that line might be the only bidder for a lease and if thus free of competition might find out for terms which the government could not grant. The uncertainty of a market for Alaska coal, other than for local use and purposes for the navy and merchant marine, which is being cut into by the use of petroleum as a fuel, might militate against securing complete bids from those who either must submit to high freight rates or build a competing railroad.

On the other hand, he said, that the

AMERICAN CITIZENS ARE WELL PROTECTED FROM DISEASE GERMS

Force of Government Experts Continually on Look-Out for Agents Which Will Destroy Different Forms of Bacteria—Cholera Suspects in Quarantine

(International News Service.)
By Sidney Espy.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Nowhere in the world are the citizens of a country so well protected from the dissemination of plague as in the United States. Especially is this true in protecting them from diseases brought to this country by infected persons from abroad. The protection is afforded by representatives of the United States government, a special service of employees being hired for this purpose. They are part of the United States public health and marine hospital service, and extend to every seaport and coastwise port of any consequence in the country. They are also stationed in districts where contagious disease of any character becomes epidemic, the matter being handled under their supervision, notwithstanding the fact that the United States also maintain their respective bureaus of health.

The United States government now is maintaining the strictest and the first really scientific quarantine against cholera that has ever been maintained in the world. The aim in the strictest does not know how big a force of the best medical experts in the world is working day and night to prevent the spread of cholera.

When cholera became a menace in Italy over a year ago there was a great deal known about cholera here. It was no longer a mysterious disease that creep through the best regulated quarantines. This is the end of the prodigal that the United States has now taken hold of, and it explains why this country is free of the disease, while it is slowly spreading through Europe.

When the alarm of cholera carried by arriving immigrants was first sounded in this country, the Public Health and Marine Hospital service was put on the job. General Walter Wyman, chief of the service, sent Dr. Goddard to Naples and Genoa, the two largest ports of embarkation for immigrants, and had him see that the Italian authorities enforced the quarantine regulations as they were then understood. As cholera spread from Russia and Germany, and was noted at other ports of departure several of the younger surgeons of the Public Health and Marine Hospital service were sent abroad to assist Dr. Goddard.

Great Precautions
But the precautions taken abroad were only the coarse mesh of the screen that was built around the United States. At first the Italian authorities did not like to admit that they had cholera in Naples and Genoa at all, and they declared that, if there were cases, there were not serious. Afterwards they found that details were just as satisfactory as quarantine, and they co-operated heartily with the American authorities in enforcing the quarantine.

New York is the largest port for the arrival of immigrants in the United States, and there the local health authorities co-operated with the United States authorities. For immigrants coming from the cholera in Europe sought other ports of departure than the usual Italian ports, and the cholera spread through Southern Russia and along the Baltic. It appeared in parts of Germany and now while the French authorities are left to admit it, there are a number of cases at Marseilles.

The immigrants sought other ports of entry to the United States than New York. Boston and Philadelphia were naturally the first, but it was only last week that an Italian steamer came into Providence, Rhode Island, bringing a large number of immigrants.

Stringent Regulations
As the disease progressed abroad, there were more stringent regulations enforced. The quarantine period was extended from five to ten days. Then came the revelation of the cholera carrier, a thing not previously well understood. It was found persons who had the disease always carried the germs of cholera with them, and distributed them after having been fully cured as far as outward symptoms were concerned.

The same was true in some cases of persons who had merely come in contact with the disease, and had never had it themselves. These "carriers" persist for a period of twenty days, though some of them have been known to "persist" for as long as ninety days. They are just as dangerous to turn loose as active cholera cases. How the disease is abroad is shown by the latest cable reports to General Walter Wyman. These state that from July 22 to July 25 there were 68 cases of cholera and twenty deaths in Naples. There were in the city, Naples, 148 cases and 74 deaths. In Palermo there were 100 cases, 22 of which were fatal. Sixty there were 130 cases and 32 deaths.

Of course there may be some other means of cholera conveyance not now understood, by which the disease may gain entrance here, but the precautions are effective so far as the medical world understands the disease, as so far as preventing cholera satisfactory to the men who have had the work in charge.

A LITTLE TONIC FOR THE PESSIMISTS

Residents of the city whose ideas of the crops and the crop prospects are naturally more or less hazy should take a trip out into the country these days if they want to have their pessimism wiped away and their faith in Alberta given a new reinforcement.

It is something to say, but it is undoubtedly true, that there is being cut this week in the country surrounding Edmonton the finest crop that has ever been grown in any country at any time.

When the city dweller turns to the market report for his knowledge of the crop situation he reads about black rust, cut worms, bugs, frost, hail, drought, too much moisture, slow maturing, lack of sunshine, and dozens of other things, until, unless he is a confirmed optimist, he is likely to become convinced that there really never was a chance of the crop running such a gauntlet.

But when the city dweller reads the immigration literature depicting the glorious opportunities which await the farmer who is invited to this western country, or when he hears the real estate man enthuse about grain crops so heavy that the stocks spread over onto the road allowance, he is likely to accept the ticker reports with a certain reserve.

And then, when the city dweller listens to the after-dinner speaker deal in glowing terms with the gigantic possibilities of this glorious heritage of ours, or words to that effect, he is likely to become enthusiastic himself and decide that everything is all right, after all, the bears and the ticker to the contrary notwithstanding.

But out in the country this week there is a scene which will make the heart glad and dissolve all doubts. Thousands and thousands of acres of golden grain waving in the breeze. Never a sign of frost. Rust, smut, cut worms and all those bogeys of the pit not even showing a trace, and the binders humming in every direction in a veritable chorus of prosperity.

The town man may have his doubts, but every doubt will cost him money. This year the country is rich. The realization is everything that the most enthusiastic could claim, and then the truth be not half told. It is to those who appreciate what it all means and act accordingly that the richest rewards will flow.

A little trip out into the country these days is a tonic which will do those who are least acquainted the most good.

A TRIBUTE TO THE INTELLIGENCE OF THE PUBLIC

Chief Ensor has resigned. He handed his resignation in quietly and left the city without any fuss or announcement.

Chief Ensor is the man whom Bouillon appointed to the position of chief of police after ex-Chief Lancy had decided that there was neither honor nor glory in lingering in office until Bouillon should discharge him from the position.

Since Chief Ensor commenced his incumbency of office the police station has been a hotbed of discontent. Officers who had seen years and years of service on the force found it so uncomfortable under his rule that they resigned rather than wait the inevitable day when Chief Ensor would sever his connection with the department or have it severed for him. At the finish the force was so disorganized that something amounting to a strike was in effect on the force. Generally speaking, one of the finest police forces in the world had deteriorated to one of the most lax and dissatisfied.

Chief Ensor is the man who made an exhibition of himself at the Oliver meeting by making an unwarranted attack on an offending and inoffensive citizen, for which he was fined like a common rowdy in his own police court in spite of the fact that he used all the machinery of his own department; in his own defence.

In handing in his resignation Chief Ensor pays the public the first compliment he has contributed since his appointment. He offers no reason for resigning. The self-evident inference is that he gives the public credit with sufficient intelligence to recognize that for him to give a reason for resigning would be entirely superfluous.

NOT MUCH CONSISTENCY ABOUT THIS ARRANGEMENT

At the water meeting in the Separate School hall last night the city engineer gave figures to show the amount of water pumped and the superintendent of the power plant gave testimony to the effect that there had not been a meter reading in months.

Down at the city market the city insists that the vendor of hay or coal or cordwood shall have the same weighed or measured before offering for sale, so that the purchaser of, say, four dollars' worth shall know just exactly how much it is that he is getting.

What kind of consistency is it for the city to insist by law that the vendor of loads of coal, or hay, or wood shall get the exact figures for a trifling matter of a wagon load of such things as can be placed in plain sight and for the city at the same time to be paying the price of pumping millions of gallons of water without knowing how many millions it is pumping.

Easy Travel

(By Thomas Tapper)

There are on the earth at the present time about 1,600,000,000 human beings. How long mankind has inhabited the earth we do not know, but we are not great men without any trouble as far back as two thousand five hundred years. If we assume that the average life life is, about thirty years, which is probably too great an average, and, further, assume that the present population has remained itself, every thirty years, the total amount to 133,000,000. The total of people who have lived on the earth is probably absurdly small.

However, it is big enough to make us think, and that is good for us.

Some time ago one of the English universities printed a list of the thousand greatest men who have ever lived. This list was made up by carefully sifting out all active men of whom history has left us a record. They are men of all sorts of callings: soldiers, sailors, writers, teachers, printers, and so on. They all come within approximately the two thousand five hundred years of our estimate, which means that one great man is born on an average once in two and a half years.

Now, 1,000 men compared with 133,000,000 is as one to 133,000,000, or, one man in 133,000,000 survives in history. If this state of men, 133,000,000, could be placed in a straight line, each man occupying a square foot of standing room—when there would be a small allowance for President Taft—there would be from one great man to the next the distance of 133,000,000 feet, or, stated in easier terms, it would be 25,000 miles from one great man to the next.

A Long Line

Now a line of 133,000,000,000 of men is a long line. It is, in fact, 1,000,000 miles long. If you had to walk this line to study its 1,000 greatest men, and you could average twenty-five miles per day, it would take you 1,000 days, or three years, to get to the first man. In the course of your life, say seventy years, you could, by walking every day, meet about twenty-three of them, but you could not stop to talk with them more than an hour or so, for you would have to jog on to keep your appointment with the next man 1,000 days later. Fortunately among the 1,000 great men of all times, there is one who truly deserves his place. He was a printer by profession, and among other things he accomplished was a matter of saving us that incessant journeying of twenty-five miles a day. Merely by reaching out his hand, we can touch any one of these 1,000 men, however far along the line he may stand.

The mystery of this is so far beyond the power of Aladdin's lamp that it makes that renowned affair look like a foolish toy. If you feel inclined to wander about town, or to go to a ball game or sit on the shady side of the house you can do so. But if these affairs and their kind tire you and you want to spend an hour with one of the Thousand, you have only to turn to the printer's invention, called a book, and say: "Come here, Moses, and narrate, and Confucius." In the end of the show that is going on around me; let us talk awhile. And you have only to be behind the screen of the book covers and you hear Socrates talk just as if you were dead to the world, and alive in Athens, 2,300 years ago. And, better than that, the printer's art has given you a chance to talk not only to the famous Thousand, but with ever so many other men in the line—men who do not fall into the Thousand.

Politics and Politicians

Governor Woodrow Wilson is to speak at the Texas State Fair in Dallas next month.

Dr. John Abernethy, president of the University of Alabama, is mentioned as a probable candidate for Congress.

The States that will elect governors this fall are Maryland, Kentucky, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Edward F. Dunne, former mayor of Chicago, is expected soon to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor of Illinois.

Governor Bass of New Hampshire is said to be laying plans to succeed United States Senator Burnham, whose term will expire on March 3, 1913.

Progressive Republicans of Minnesota are arranging for a State banquet in Minneapolis, September 7, at which time a banquet for Senator La Follette of Wisconsin for president is to be introduced.

Joseph E. Davies, who has been chosen member of the Democratic National Committee from Wisconsin, is a resident of Watertown and a graduate of the law school of the University of Wisconsin.

New Mexico is to hold her first State election next November. The present indications are that the question of prohibition will figure conspicuously in the campaign for State officers and members of the legislature.

William J. Browning, for many years chief clerk of the house of representatives, is a candidate for the republican nomination for Congress in the First New Jersey district, to succeed the late Congressman Levenslager.

Elections in the two new States of New Mexico and Arizona will be held in November. The United States will be chosen in January. William M. Andrews, the present Republican delegate from New Mexico, will be a candidate for United States senator from that State, and Ralph M. Cameron, the present Republican delegate from Arizona, is expected to be in running from that State.

Many of the politicians are now agreed in the opinion that the national Democratic convention next year will meet in Baltimore and the Republican convention in Chicago.

United States Senator Brewster of Kansas has declared himself against the re-nomination of President Taft and in favor of Senator La Follette for the presidency.

class. Really, your opportunity for travelling down that line is an amazing one.

The dirt. Just by wishing it, you can at any spot on the line at a moment's notice. Further, you may as at once to practically any part of the globe, if you will call for the books of a traveler; or, to the sun, moon and stars, if you call for the work of an astronomer. This makes the word "unimpeded" (present everywhere) seem reasonable.

Sit in a rocking chair and try it. Call for Plato. The best words he ever thought will be repeated to you. If it is hot, call for the Arctic records, and you can travel day after day in the Polar regions, while all your neighbors are drinking ice water.

Or, if you want to hunt, just say: "Give me 'African Travels' and there you are."

And better still, you need not travel with men of today. You are quite at liberty to jog along with Herodotus, or Marco Polo, or Sir John Mandeville, or Christopher Columbus. Any person or time within reason is yours for the asking.

Now few people know this, for if more knew it, fewer would sit on the cracked box and chew, or spend three nights a week being entertained by fraudulent seers, or hane over the bar.

The truth is, we don't know how rich we are; and not knowing how rich we are, we live a poor, miserable life, and grumble when we could just as well live a glorious happy life. The fact is, the only way to get as close as a talk with a few of the Notable Thousand, and try to find out how they got into the exclusive class.

It may help us.

When the mountains were formed and the broad valleys took their shapes, Nature made the location for the future city of Fort George. It is just as natural and proper that an important city should be built on that spot as for a baby to take milk.

We are doing something to help Nature. We are calling attention to the natural resources, and, ourselves, trying to take advantage of these and create others to acquire valuable holdings at Fort George. But the real foundation of the future greatness of Fort George is in conditions which no man has created; among these we name:

1100 miles of navigable waterways, extending north, south, east and west, uniting at Fort George, and there making the strategic commercial metropolis of an area rich in Vast agricultural lands. Gold-mining territory of proven character.

Coal lands ready to produce the best of coal cheaply and in inexhaustible abundance.

Merchandise timber in great bodies of virgin forest.

Pulp-wood material for generations of newspaper readers.

Waterpower to run hundreds of miles of trolley lines and to light and furnish power for a city.

If you read this, have a few dollars, or many of them—or if you can borrow the money necessary—do not let the sun go down before you make the first step toward letting all these natural advantages at Fort George inure to your benefit.

WRECK OF MAINE TO BE REMOVED

(Special to the Capital)
Washington, Sept. 5.—As much of the wrecked battleship Maine as the available funds will permit will be removed or prepared for removal from Havana harbor, it was made known yesterday, and the man-of-war offed from the ruins will be refitted with water to await an additional appropriation by congress to finish the raising operations.

Congress failed to act on the president's recommendation for an additional $250,000, and the war department has mapped out its plans for the expenditure of the money on hand, which probably will be exhausted by the time congress convenes in December.

Because of the lack of funds even funeral services over the recovered remains of the dead and the erection in the Arlington national cemetery of the mast of the ill-fated vessel as a monument to them must be postponed. The remains and the mast will be sent to the cemetery to be stored there until congress acts.

The terribly wrecked forward part of the vessel, or about two-thirds of it, will be cut down to the levels already reached by the pumpage, then taken out and dumped into deep waters outside Havana harbor. A small cutter-dredge will be built inside the main of-ferland to a depth of about 10 feet around the forward part in order to extricate the rest of it later. One-third of the after portion of the vessel, it is believed, can be floated. It will be pumped out and bulkheaded, but not removed, pending the appropriation of more money.

Major George L. Edwin of the head-quarters department has been ordered to Havana to supervise the shipment to the United States of the remains recovered from the Maine. He relieves Captain James Tilford.

ROADS LAY OFF $81,970 IN ONE YEAR

NET ANNUAL SAVING OF $54,000,000
IN OPERATING EXPENSES
BEEN EFFLECTED

(Special to the Capital)
Chicago, Sept. 5.—Following a plan for reinforcement, railroads of the country for the last year have laid off $1,870 men, affecting a net annual saving in operation expenses of $94,000,000, according to a report made public today.

This method of economy in operation has been adopted by 60 per cent of all the roads and is rapidly spreading to the remaining lines.

The decrease in expenses and maintenance is said to be the result of the action of the interstate commerce commission, which refused to allow the roads to put into effect a general increase of freight rates. The largest reductions in the forces are found among the trackmen, shovemen and miscellaneous employees.

The report containing these figures may, it is said, have an important bearing on the widespread unrest existing in the ranks of the shovemen of the Harriman lines.

That the dispute with the shovemen of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and other lines may extend to other railway systems was indicated today when shovemen employed by the Chicago and Northwestern road are reported to have given notice that with the expiration of their present wage agreement this month an increase of salary will be demanded. Officials of the Chicago and Northwestern road declined to discuss the subject today.

After a day of secret conferences the executive board of Illinois Central federal workers, representing nine trades, has decided to leave the question of calling a strike to the international presidents of the different unions. This action is taken by some to mean a step in the direction of a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

A letter has been forwarded to Vice President W. L. Park and General Manager Percy of the Illinois Central railroad, asking that a conference be arranged and a number of meetings were held by the labor men while awaiting a

MRS. E. H. HARRIMAN, wife of the late railroad wizard, who during the past year has received more than five thousand begging letters. The aggregate amounts of money asked for reaches the gigantic total of $110,000,000. reply to the statement. It may be several days before labor men conclude their negotiations with the railroad officials.

LAST SURVIVOR OF A SAVAGE TRIBE

AGED INDIAN, TO WHOM GUN IS A NOVELTY, CAPTURED IN LOWER CALIFORNIA

(Special to the Capital)
Chico, Cal., Sept. 3.—The last known survivors of the Mill Creek and Deer creek Indians, whose atrocities made hideous pages in the annals of early California, was captured two miles from Oroville late today while attempting to steal meat from a slaughter house.

Driven from the fastnesses of the Feather river country by forest fires, he was taken to the Oroville jail, slaver beyond resistance, and followed by a crowd which collected at the sight of a man 60 years old, unshod and clad only in a sleeveless canvas shirt, faced with deer skin fringes.

Indians of surviving tribes were summoned, but were unable to talk with him, and a number of deputy sheriffs offered him food by way of experiment, a knife and fork and spoon were laid beside a tin plate loaded with potatoes and meat, but the savage took no notice of them, claving pieces of meat apart with his hands.

He was shown firearms, but did not comprehend their use, but when a deputy lighted a cigarette he seized the match, and by making circles around, demonstrated that he kept his hair short by shaving it. His only possessions were a few deer sinews. No one knows what to do with him, no charge having been placed against him.

The Deer creek and Mill creek Indians were obliterated as a tribe, in a series of battles in the early '60s, and it had been believed that none of the tribesmen survived.

ALICE NEILSON TO VISIT EDMONTON

FAMOUS GRAND OPERA STAR WILL BE HERE ON FRIDAY,
OCTOBER 6

Speaking of Alice Neilson, who together with Riccardo Martin and six other grand opera artists will delight the ears of musical Edmonton on Friday, October 6, the Boston American recently said of her: "The phrase is somewhat stereotyped, and it is quite inadequate to describe the manner in which the entire house rose at the exquisite singing of Miss Alice Neilson. The limpid beauty of her voice and excellence of color was never there. The cadenza with its final and final pianissimo note was perfect. For encore Miss Neilson sang 'A Toi' (Bembris), with charming grace and earnestness. 'Of the group of these songs,' says the writer, 'I much preferred the interpretation of 'St. Yves Aveant Des Lilies' (H. Hahn), the exquisite delicacy inherent in this composer's writings was well rendered by Miss Neilson. 'Way Down Upon the Swane River,' sung with beautiful expression, each word receiving its proper value, aroused enthusiastic applause from the audience both to let the artist go."

It is these two exquisite artists, to-

Real Estate BULLETIN

The movement on Jasper avenue west still continues, and we do not hesitate to predict that the next few weeks will witness one of the largest turnovers of Jasper properties west of Ninth street ever before recorded in the history of this city.

The steady demand for properties through the past summer months in all residential districts of the city has laid a foundation for a real estate movement which is appealing alike to large and small investors. It is hardly necessary to state that this movement is increasing and that we are now in an era of prosperity like the one which has never before been known in this municipality.

MUNICIPAL SLATE IS CLEARED AGAIN

CONTRACT FOR PLUMBING CHILD-RENS HOME LET — ANYONE FOR DAMAGE

The first of this week the two remaining electric cars for the street railway system were to have been shipped from Toronto on route to Edmonton. Such was the statement in a communication from the car builders to the city commissioners and read at the meeting this morning.

T. A. Moore and others had a communication to the commissioners protesting against the establishment of a street railway south on Twenty-fourth street in front of lot 1 Block 24, saying that the location of the switch there caused a depreciation in the value of adjacent property. They wanted the switch moved a 400 feet farther on. The communication was filed.

Claim for Damages
Boss Company, limited, filed a claim for damages amounting to $125.25 for the damage to have been sustained from damaged goods in their basement when backwater from the sewer caused their basement to become flooded. The matter was referred to the solicitor.

Heating Children's Home.
Contract for heating and plumbing to be installed at the Children's detention home was awarded to the Standard Plumbing company for the sum of $427. There was another tender a few dollars lower, but this one but in making the tender the firm has failed to include the tender could not be considered.

Firm is Missing
A communication was read from the Joseph Dixon Crucible company, asking as to the address and whereabouts of the Dixon Bridge company, having contracts with this city. HEALTH AUTHORITIES OPPOSED BY GENERAL PUBLIC — THINK THAT THEY ARE POISONED

(Western Associated Press)
Chiasso, Switzerland, Sept. 5.—Since the beginning of the present year the total number of deaths from cholera in Italy has passed the 30,000 mark. In view of the general expectation that the Democrats will hold their national convention in Baltimore next year it is interesting to note that the party has not yet in that city five times as that four of the candidates nominated there were elected to the presidency. They were Andrew Jackson, Martin Van Buren, James K. Polk and Franklin Pierce.

Warning of Advance in Prices

Our Lots Are Too Cheap.
Every time we drive a load of customers to

G.T.P. Addition

It is as evident to them as it is to us that our prices are way below their real value.

Compare its location near what will soon be the largest pay roll centre of the city, the fine, high, dry site—the large lots and the exceptionally easy terms, with surrounding values, and the fact will be as evident to you.

But we are going to partially remedy this, as the price of every lot unsold Sept. 1 will be raised $25. But, even then, at the advanced price, you will be getting in nearer the ground floor than on many other similar propositions.

Prices now $90 to $200
Terms, $10 cash and balance $5 per month.
